Motion for Continuance Overruled and Trial Begun

Dying Declaration of The Deceased Produced as Evidence For State.

Lige, Roy and Murry, for the Murder of Emiliss Wade. The case was defendants who were indicted jointly demanded a separate trial whereupon the Commonwealth elected to try ready for trial in this case. The defendant, on account of the absence of Attorney. Ringo and County attorney, Woodward, agreed that the affidavit might be read as the deposition of the absent witnesses and the empaneling of a jury was at once begun. The jury box was filled from the regular panel and after a brief examination of the jurors, touching qualifications, attorneys, representing the Commonwealth announced that the Jury was satisfactory. Whereupon a ttorneys representing the defendant after some examination of the jurors excused about half of the panel. The jury was completed a number of times and accepted by the Commonwealth, but as often the attorneys for defendant excused one or more jurors until they had exhausted practically all their fifteen peremptory challenges, when the jury was finally accepted by both parties. You meet a man, woman, boy or girl and you ask him or her to subscribe for the Republican, and you secure his or her name, take their money and give a receipt and record 500 votes for yourself in receipts sent you, for every dollar sent in. In each case you give the subscriber a receipt for the money paid you, and you report to the Republican office and turn over your money, and you are entitled to 500 votes for every dollar on new subscription and 400 on renewal subscription. We give you the ballots, you write your name on them and you cast them in the ballot box and go on your way rejoicing and get more subscriptions and collect more back subscription. So you see it is not a question of soliciting people to vote for you but one of asking them to subscribe for the Republican and you get the votes.

Douglas fir ties ranked third, with approximately 10 per cent of the total, Naturally the proportion of these two timbers will increase as the supply of oak dwindles. This is also true of cedar, chestnut, cypress. Western piano, tamarack, hemlock, and other trees which are coming into the market as tie timbers.

Cedar, which is very durable, has been extensively used to take the place of white oak for ties, but it is so soft that it is readily cut by the rails. This necessitates the use of tie plates and other protecive devices supply of cedar is also running short, it is necessary for the railroads to seek further for new tie timber. One of the woods which has all the requisi tes of a good tie, with the exception of durality, is the beech.

A beech tie generally consists largely of sapwood, which partly accounts for its lack of durability, but, on the other hand, allows a thorough and sy preservativ ttereatment. In Ger-any and France, beech ties have been essfully preserved from decay, and are used very extensively. Beech is found widely distributed throughout the eastern part of the United States, and at the same time is comparatively cheap and abundant. If, therefore, the railroads whose lines are located in the region where beech is treated with some suitable preservatreated with some suitable preserva-tive, another source of supply of the timber will be opend up.

Stumpagee values have been increas ing so rapidly during the last few years that many railroads have found it nec essary to modify their timber policy, and they yearly apply preservatives more kinds of wood. Substitute woods naturally vary with different sections of the country, but in most cases they lack the two essential qualities to mechanical wear and to decay. Experience proves that wear can be successfully retarded by the use of tie plates and other mechanical devices, and decay can be postponed by That the humble railroad tie is a application of proper preservatives. most important factor in the material The new conditions have made it necdevelopment of the country is a great essary for many railroad companies truth that is little understood by peo- to meet the problem of preservation ple outside of railroad circles. Motor Sled That Travels as Fast As a Toboggan, and there is No Walking Back.

The motor iceboat affords the finest of all winter sports. It travels as fast as a toboggan, and there is on walking back. Anyone who has a small power launch can construct and equip a motor iceboat at trifling cost and with little loss of time. The boat in the illustration was built and run by John Milot and John Beebe. glance at the picture tells how it is constructed. The frame is 8 ft. dong-3 da wide, of 2 by 6 in. stuff. The flooring is 1-in pine the engine is a 3.hp. taken from their motor boat. The driving wheel is an old metalrim bicycle wheel with the rim chipped to make teeth. This Wheel is 28 inches in diameter connected to the engine with a sprocket chain. The driver is carried in a rocking frame which can be raisde to lift the wheel from the ice or depressed to make the teeth bite into the ice as desired. This is accomplished by moving the uprighrod shown. The rear runners are 5 feet apart. Steering is by means of the steering rod snown and the single front runner. In case of accident this steering rod would be dangerous; a horizontal steering wheel can easily be substituted and would be much bet ter. The boat attained frequenly a speed of 70 miles an hour. Indeed with smooth ice and no wind a speed of 100 miles an hour is well within the possibilities.

THAT PROPOSED TRACTION LINE.

New Impetus Which is Favored by Citizens of Several Different Counties.

The Henderson, Ky., Journal of recent date says:

The movement that has been on foot for several years to build a traction line from Evansville Ind., through Henderson to Owensboro has been augmented within the past few days by citizens of McLean county and Bow ling Green, who proposed to assist in building the road if the line is extended from Owensboro through Calhoun, the county seat of MicLean county, to Bowling Green the capital of Warren

Between Owensboro and Bowling Green is a valuable stretch of country, rich in coal and forest products. No line of railroad touches this rich section. It is isolated from the markets and is now awaiting development Thousands of acres of coal and timber land lie along the proposed route. Acres of this land contain virgin forest and coal in many places is less than 100 feet below the surface.

George F. Swint, editor of the Calhoun Star, is the prime mover of the new line. He has been working upon the proposition for several years and has just lately met with encouragement that prompts him to state that a company will be organized composed of Evansville, Owensboro, Henderson-Calhoun and Bowling Green capitalists, which will go to work as soon as spring opens up to build the road.

The proposed road will begin at Evansville and will cross the Ohio riv er at a point above the city. It will run from Henderson through Zion and Hebbardsville and will cross Green river near Hamilton's ferry, entering Owensboro by way of Sorgho, From Owensboro the line will run almost di reect to Calhoun then following Green river, touches Livermore Hartford, Morgantown and many other smaller towns before reaching the terminal at Bowling Green.

Reports from towns along the route are to the effect that everything possible will be done by the citizens to assist in the building of the line.

The citizens of McLean county have gotten together on the proposition and that the Protective Tariff system ena are willing to put up a large sum of bles American growers and manufac money to foster the road. DIED SUDDENLY.

Hubert Ellis has passed from time to eternity leaving many sad and brok en hearts to mourn his death. He was 10 years, 6 months and 1 day old when he died, son of Mr.and Mrs. Walker Ellis. He died of heart trouble, which he had been subject to all his life. But the day before he died that night, Feb. 25. while the lamp of life was still burning he played out in the yard with his little brother and sister and started himself a little playhouse but failed to finish it that day and when the rays of the last sun was shinning over him on the earth he said. Longitudinal Cross Section of H. P. Maxim's Rifle "Silencer." Showing Turbine Veins.

Patents having been obtained on it in 24 countries, Hiram Percy Maxim gave a demonstration and explanation recently of his stlencing device for rifles before a large number of newspapers and scientific publications. By the use of a sanbox target the inven or made a series of experi by firing a variety of rifles, ranging in power from a twenty-two caliber up to the new Springfield thirty caliber military rifle. They were fired both with and without the "silencer." and the spectators-or perhaps might be better to say auditors veled at the effect of the little device. It is said scientific tests show that 90 per cent, of the noise of explosion is eliminated

The "silencer" is a metal tube about seven inches long and an inch and a quarter in diameter, which can be fastened quickly to the end of a rifle barrel which has been provided with a thread for that purpose. Hitherto those who did not know Mr. Maxim's secret had an idea there was a valve in the "silencer" which stopped the rapid escape of the gases from the end of the barrel. It is these gases which cause the noise in fir-

Mr. Maxim explained that the principle used in stopping or slowing up the gases is that of a negative turbine, and the process, in effect, is the reverse of that usde in driving boats with a turbine engine. There is a hole through the center of the "silencer" large enough to permit the easy passage of the bullet. As for the gases, they are given a rapid rotary motion by the device, which prevents their escape until this motion has died down.

Mr. Maxim used the simple illus tration of a wash basin. By giving a rapid rotary motion to the water it is prevented from escaping through the vent at the botom until the motion slackens, when it escapes slowly. While the water is revolving rapidly the vent is open so that a small object would be able to pass through freely without being retarded in the slightest degree. The invention was passed around the room for inspec-

OTHER COUNTRIES "FORE-STALLING" NEW TARIFF.

Countries Said to be Raising their Duties to be Ready For Us.

It would seem that countries whose treattes permit them to do so are getting ready to raise their minimum Tariff rates to correspond with the minimum rates which our new Tariff law is expected to carry. There is nothing unusual in that and nothing worng. We are, in fact, doing the same thing ourselves. It is not matter for any country to find fault with. The only proper ground for complaint is discrimination. Some countries now discriminate against us. To meet that situation Congress is preparing a maximum rate, to be used in retaliation. It cannot be too often repeated that the ordinary rate of duty on imports is a matter which each country ough to enact and maintain in the sole interest of its people with no regard whatever to ohters. The minimum Tariff rate in a dual Tariff ought to be the rate at which the country is willing to admit products regardless of origin. That is what the American people expect of the coming Con gress They are not concerned with the maxi mum rate except that it be large enough to secure civil treatment from other countries. The minimum rate is what we stand by, and it is open to all countries of the earth, just as the Dingley rates are now open. If a country misuses us, it will pay the maximum rate. It is none of our bus ness what rate of duty any other country places on imports. All we sk is the our goods shall have the same chance as those of outher countries. If the minimum rates of any other country are lower than the interests of its people require, they ought to be raised. This is a Protectionist country, and we have neither the right nor the disposition to comties not exceeding 5 per cent, on our products, while we,if we choose,may impose duties of 100 per cent, on Chically performance, but although we

Time They Did.

The New York Times expresses the opinion that the prospect for smashing Protection "is distinctly more encouraging from the single fact that an extensive organization of manufactures demands a revision of the Tariff." In this no doubt the "Times" speaks according to its lights. Evidently it does not know that the Tariff ripping tendencies of the organization alluded to are confined to a small but dominant this regard is not approved by a large majority of the membership. Signs of this disapproval are very plentiful with a prospect that they will become still more visible at the next annual election. The real Protectionists of the National Association of Manufacturers, as we are informed, are getting ready to resume control of the acts and deliverances of the association. It is time they did.

Monroe and Roosevelt were the only chief executives of the United States who have ever officially visited Kentucky while occupants of the Presidential chair. Of course Jackson and Polk were obliged to pass through this state on their way to and from their Tennessee homes, and Grant occasionally ran down from the Capitol to Covington, Kentucky, to spend a few days with his aged parents. But Washington's stay is more interesting and was for more profitable to the Blue Grass than were the visits of any of the foregoing men.

For nearly 90 years, until destroyed during the war between the States, the record of Washington's visit to this State was preserved in tangible form. He later surveyed another great tract of land for Fry on the Little Sandy River, some ten miles from the mouth in the present county of Greenup. The patent for these lands was issued by Great Brittain and it is finally fell into the possession of Richardson Apperson, of Mr. Sterling, Ken tucky, who carefully preserved it until his death.

Washington was unanimously elected President in 1789. Kentucky was not then in the Union so of course, had no vote. The first State that he recommended to Congress for admission was Kentucky. He did this in December, 1790, and, in the following February an act to this end was passed and received the President's signature. Washington was again unanimously re-elected in 1793, and Kentucky's four electoral votes were cast for him by Charles Scott. Benjamin Logan, Notley Conn and Richard C. Anderson.

In fact, sometimes it seems as many of us were krying to see how little of it we can assimilate, without actual asphyxiation, instead of enjoying a full measure as one of the luxuries of existence. But it isn't always our own fault, it seems, and that's why the Berliner, Dr. Fischer by name, a member of the fac ulty of the famous Berlin University, has produced his invention.

It is no news to the world that the oxygen in our air is capable of being changed into a thing called ozone, a mighty enemy of bacteria and other things inimical to human lungs and human blood, destroyer of bad smells and powerful purifier in general. Sunlight itself, by constantly producing the stuff in dilute form, disinfects dailyl and hourly, to a degree, the air we breathe. The trouble is that we have too little sun, because of our smoke and our dust and our roofs, under which we stay too large a proportion of the time when the ozone producer is working.
